

Arab Human Development Report: Empowerment of Arab Women: 2005

By United Nations Development Programme, Arab Fund for Economic & Social Development, Arab Gulf Programme for United Nations Development Organizations

Stanford University Press. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Arab Human Development Report: Empowerment of Arab Women: 2005, United Nations Development Programme, Arab Fund for Economic & Social Development, Arab Gulf Programme for United Nations Development Organizations, In the first Arab Human Development Report (AHDR), gender inequality was identified as one of the main obstacles to development in the Arab Region, along with the deficits of knowledge and freedom that were addressed in the consequent AHDRs. Written by an independent group of Arab scholars, policy makers, and practitioners, the current volume focuses on the history and contemporary dynamics of Arab women's economic, political, and social empowerment in the region. It details the processes in which gender impacts Arab development while suggesting means of overcoming some of the challenges and building more equitable societies. This is the fourth installment in the series that was created to provide the Arab region with a needed neutral forum for initiating dialogues and structuring debates to build a reform agenda from within. These reports build on the wealth of Arab knowledge and insight, and present a vision of self-determined change based on a commitment to internal social reform and frank self-assessment. Forging an Arab renaissance...
