Brand New Book  Print on Demand .It was in the last week of June, 1886, and there really were warm and early summers in the nineteenth century. The little chapel had been so close and hot during the morning service that in spite of the interest Lucy Josling felt in the occasion-it was the first appearance of her betrothed, John Baines, as a preacher in his native place, and the delivery of his farewell sermon before starting for Africa-she could not repress a sigh of relief as she detached herself from the perspiring throng of worshippers and stood for a few moments in the bright sunlight, inhaling the perfume of distant hayfields. You look a trifle pale, Lucy, said Mr. Baines, senior, a stumpy red-faced man with light sandy hair and a long upper lip. It s precious warm. I s pose you n John ll want to walk back together? Well, don t keep dinner waiting, cos that always puts me out. Now then, Sarah, come along: it s too hot to stand gossiping about. Let s get home as quick as we...
